BOIL THE WATER
ADVISE PHYSICIANS.Over Dozen Typhoid Cases
in Town and More are Reported Daily.

SANITARY CONDITIONS ARE BAD

Foul Odors Come From the Streets and Fifth Accumulate—Conditions Along River Above Here Make Situation Worse—Dry Spell Hurts.

"Boil the water."

That is practically the unanimous advice of every physician reached today by The Courier. Whether the water supply is dangerous is debated, but the doctors do not disagree when it comes to suggesting that every precaution be taken to avoid a further spread of typhoid. There are already more than a dozen cases in the borough and more are being reported daily.

Conditions within the borough and along the river can be seen such that almost care should be observed, the physicians say. The river is at an unusually low stage. Fifth and sewage is accumulating along the river banks where the sewage pipes are exposed and are several feet above the water. In many cases the sewage seeps from the pipes and remains on the rocks which are above the water line. Here it accumulates, rotting under the hot August sun.

Conditions in the borough are not so bad as above. The town is getting its water supply principally from the Youghiogheny river. The springs feeding the McCoy and Breakneck reservoirs are not sufficient to supply the town. The reservoirs are lower than for a number of years. It is said, while the water is filtered before it is taken from the river into the service pipes, the typhoid germs are not all eliminated.

Between Connellsville and Confluence 1,000 men are working on the new Western Maryland railroad. There are men living in camps and all drainage from these goes into the river. The water is so low that it is easily contaminated. Connellsville today is drinking the water which drains a dozen or more construction camps.

At times the water supply is noticeably bad. Yesterday some of the water had a rank, foul odor, and tasted bad. This is the water that many are drinking. "Boil the water," say the physicians, and the advice is good to heed. There has been a demand for distilled water greater than for years. The water is recommended for drinking purposes.

The sanitary condition of the town is not the best. Along the streets foul odors arise, some from the accumulation of dirt and filth in the gutters, others from unclean outbuildings and still more from garbage, waste and other decayed matter that has been carelessly tossed into vacant lots. Much of this could be avoided. A good hard rain would do much good.

Among the typhoid cases that have been reported up to the present time are Joseph Menefee, the son of Mrs. Walter Menefee, who was taken sick soon after leaving here for a visit in West Virginia; Squire Jacob Morgan, Kate Kountz, Myrtle Kline and Mrs. C. W. Brooks, all of Greenwood; Dr. E. B. Edie, Mary Chichester and an Italian of the West Side; Edward Burr of the Plunkett; Samuel Woods, son of Dr. J. Y. Woods of Fairview avenue, and Mrs. John Snyder and daughter, Viola, of North Pittsburgh street.

There is a preponderance of cases on the West Side and in Greenwood. Some citizens attribute this to the unsanitary conditions that prevail on the unimproved property while others blame the water. Both are probably correct.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE GIRL.

Brakeman Darr of Connellsville Run Down Near Braddock
and Child May Die From Injuries—Brakeman Leaped Before Train But Was Overtaken.

Making death in a futile effort to save a child from being run down by a Pennsylvania freight train, brakeman Darr of Connellsville is in a Pittsburgh hospital with a badly cut left arm and his left arm frightfully wrenched. His recovery is expected.

Gertie King, aged 6, a deaf girl, was run down by the train, sustained a fractured skull and will probably die.

Darr was riding in the cab of a fast freight. As the train neared Braddock Darr noticed the child on the tracks. She did not heed the warning whistle of the engineer. The brakes were applied but the train was going at such a speed that Darr saw it could not stop in time. He climbed out on the running board, dropped to the cowcatcher and leaped in front of his train.

Darr ran swiftly towards the girl but was overtaken by the engine. The cylinder head struck him in the side and rolled him over. The child was run down and knocked from the tracks. She was picked up and taken to the hospital. Her skull being fractured it is doubtful whether she will recover.

FARMS OVERRUN
BY GRASSHOPPERSDrive Cattle Out of Pasture and All
Most Stall Trolley
Cars.

IRVING, Pa., Aug. 16.—Whether they are the 17-year locusts or an extraordinary brood of grasshoppers, farmers east of town have not yet determined. Anyway, they say nothing like it has ever been known in the vicinity. The area is about two miles, reaching from Strawberry to Brush Creek. Fields are literally covered with millions of small grasshoppers.

When disturbed they arise in clouds. They feed on the crops and are the favorite haunts. Horses and cows will not remain in the fields and pasture for the animals is getting to be a serious problem. For while the hoppers alighted on the trolley line tracks, wheels of cars crushing them by the thousands. Sighting had to be resorted to keep the cars moving.

The hoppers, however, have left the tracks for other places. Shortcuts from one place to another are not used. Each step causes a cloud of the insects to rise and find a lodging place up pantalon legs of the men. Farmers say that if the hoppers grow to full size serious damages will result.

BALLINGER INTENDS TO STAY.

So Does Cannon and Aldrich, According to Latest Reports, and Plan to Throw Them Over is Abandoned by Regular Leaders.

United Press Telegram.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 16.—The plan to eliminate Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich from the Republican councils to appease the insurgents has been abandoned. Private advices today said Ballinger and Cannon are the obstacles to the plan.

It was thought that Ballinger was maintaining a "front" by insisting that he wouldn't resign and Cannon bluffing about retiring as Speaker. It is learned that neither is bluffing. It is feared that the removal of Ballinger would endanger President Taft's political future. The politicians who planned the coup were aware that the President never asked either Ballinger or Cannon to resign but their self-effacement was counted upon on the grounds of party exigency.

President Taft must demand the retirement of Ballinger and Cannon will never quit.

Senator Granger, the prime mover in the plan, held a lengthy conference with President Taft today. What was discussed could not be ascertained. It was conceded that tremendous pressure is being brought to bear upon the President to participate in the game. Heretofore he has kept in the background. It keeps his will to eliminate Senator Aldrich but the faithful or the "old guard" are demanding to know why Granger, long known as one of them, is so anxious to make peace with the insurgents. The Regulars fear a "nigger in the woodpile."

MARITAL MIXUP
BEFORE SQUIRE.Albert Butler and Mrs. J. F.
Carnes Are in the Lockup.

RAN AWAY TWO YEARS AGO

Man Who Claims Woman as Wife Says She Took $75 When She Left.
Woman Sets Up as Defense Statement That She Was Not Married to Carnes.A marital mixup was aired before Squire J. M. Buttermore this morning when Mrs. J. F. Carnes and Albert Butler, formerly of Trotter, were given a hearing for indiscretions which began two years ago when the two left home together. Butler boarded at the Carnes home.

Constable S. E. Nelson located the pair yesterday at Hecla and brought them to the West Side. Carnes appeared to testify this morning.

Carnes testified that his wife left him about two years ago. She took $75 and a supply of clothing, household goods and other trinkets. She started for her former home in Emmitsville, Md. Butler had left the Carnes household the day previous. Since that time Carnes has been deprived of the care and comfort of his better half.

Butler was guilty, it appears, of more than merely taking Carnes' wife away. He has been twice married. The prisoner admitted only having a wife living in Manor. Regarding the woman he is supposed to have married in New York, Butler declared he didn't have any marriage certificate and she ran away with an Italian anyhow.

Mrs. Carnes put up the defense that she was never legally married to her supposed husband. The two were committed to jail but are being given time to secure bail.

Butler and Mrs. Carnes got to Hecla works two weeks ago following a long journey to secure work. They were at Altoona for a time and went from there to Galitzin. This trip was not prosperous so they went to Conemaugh. They walked to Johnstown and finally drifted into Greensburg. The State Constables didn't look good to Butler there so he went to Hecla and secured work in the mines.

The Government is Blamed for Agitation Among Coal Miners.

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 16.—Mine operators in Western Pennsylvania, whose men are on strike, have filed with the Special Immigration Commission a protest against the issuance of the bulletin which has been published recently dealing with the conditions of aliens in the mining districts of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana and the South. It is claimed by the operators that the publication of those bulletins has caused additional irritation of a very critical situation.

The Special Immigration Commission was appointed by Congress for the purpose of investigating the conditions of aliens in various industries and its reports are now being given to the public. Mine operators in the regions where strikes are in progress say these reports are being used by agitators to engender feeling between employer and employee. It is said that in some instances the miners are being told that the Government has made this investigation solely on their account and that the federal authorities are looking for the strike. An official of the Commission said today: "There has been no disposition on the part of the Commission to antagonize either employer or employee by these investigations and reports. The making of the reports has never been timed with any idea of industrial conditions throughout the country. The data was gathered more than a year ago in some of the 20 industries investigated. The conclusions of the commission, based on these statistics, have been prepared from time to time and have been made public as rapidly as they could be got out."

Photographing a Panther.
A panther is not easily killed and will often revive with very unpleasant results, as a certain occasion in the Duquesne. He appeared to be quite dead, and one of the spectators rushed up with a camera on a stand to obtain a picture of the supreme moment. He got his photograph, and, strange to say, he survived what followed, but no sooner had he taken it than the panther revived, tore himself loose and went for the photographer. Somehow the man escaped, but the camera was sent flying, and, discovered by his encounter with it, the panther turned and made for the nearest tree, up which he went as quickly as a monkey. Now, the tree was crowded with interested spectators, and for three or four strenuous seconds until the panther was about to enjoy a spectacle of natives dropping to earth with loud thuds like ripe plums from a jungle plum tree as the panther approached them.—Wide World Magazine.

Absolute Clearance Rather Than Profit Getting is the Aim of This Sale. All Summer Goods Must Be Sold

The heavier the season, the greater the accumulation of small lots. And because we have passed through a season of unusually large proportions, we've a lot of odd lots that must be disposed of. To you they're worth full price, to us only a fraction of it because they choke up our stock rooms and crowd out fuller and larger assortments that sell more readily. So we've met the situation squarely; we haven't reduced prices in a listless way. If clearance is to be accomplished quickly, prices must be reduced sensationally; what we get concerns us not nearly as much as how quickly we get it.

SALE STARTS WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17th.

SMITHFIELD.

SMITHFIELD, Aug. 15.—The Presbyterian Sunday School picnic at Castoli on the Cheat Saturday. The school went to Cheat Haven on the 8:29 train and returned on the 8:30 in the evening. They had selected a picturesque spot along the banks of Ruble's run near where it mingles its 14 clear waters with the turbid Cheat. The humpers were opened and the spread laid beneath the overhanging branches of the mountain oak. Convenient boulders served both for tables and seats. And such a layout! It is useless to attempt to describe the menu. Each head of a family had provided enough to feed twice the number that was there to partake of it and there was a goodly company present.

The writer was present by invitation and as the guest of Mrs. C. O. Hestey and sisters, the Misses Huth, and old Justice to a dinner such as it is seldom his privilege to sit down to. Although we made a determined onslaught on the fried chicken, salads, pies, ice cream, lemonade and cake, we scarcely made an impression on the abundance set before us.

After the dinner was over the company retired to the camp of H. H. Sackett, which is located at Soltzer's hole, a half mile below the picnic ground and there enjoyed themselves as the guests of the campers in boat riding and bathing in the Cheat until the arrival of their train at 6 P. M., which the most of the party came home on. A little camp the only accident to mar the pleasure of the picnic happened to a member of the picnic party, G. A. Whetzel while in bathing put his shoulder out of place after coming out, having it set by Dr. Messmore who happened to be in the camp. He returned to the water on either side was not of the picnic class, but then it was a matter of fun to see the boys fall over one another chasing the balls.

COMPANY D BOYS
ENJOY CAMP LIFE
AT GETTYSBURG.

CAMP J. P. S. COHN, GETTYSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—Camp opened today at 9 o'clock with the usual ceremony with 9,000 officers and men present. The Tenth Regiment also is the most charming as well as the most historic. It is a plot not previously used for camp purposes being on part of the field where Gen. Pickett, on July 3, 1863, while his magnificent but utterly forlorn charge. Going out Franklin street from Gettysburg we are the first to be found, which makes it nice for the boys who want to go to town. The boys are all satisfied this year. No kick coming from any source.

Fishers were on the ground when the soldiers arrived. Everything is well. They sold the bullet that killed General Meade to everybody in the regiment last year, and they were the first ones they tried to sell this year. The Band, Hospital Corps and Company D have worked hard ever since they arrived. Just as soon as the cook tent and mess tent were up they had to go on the field for drill to get ready for inspection.

The water is good this year and nobody is sick. The boys went to town last night and found lots of good things to eat, cantaloupes, four cents each, tomatoes a dollar a bushel. That means lots of extra this year. Connellsville is represented in camp by Company D, the Band and Hospital Corps.

Chief Musician J. W. Buttermore is making good and seems to enjoy the job.

Major L. P. McCormick is on duty in the hospital most of the time. He is a fine looking surgeon in camp. Dr. H. McKee of the West Side is also on the regimental hospital corps.

Sunday will be review day for the visitors, excursions coming from Philadelphia, York and Harrisburg. The land has more visitors this year than before, being so near.

The hospital corps was kept busy during inspection, the men being over-crowded with the heat.

The inspection officer comes to the band with a very flattering compliment for the band. He says from the General down there is nothing but praise for the Connellsville musicians. No rain and everything seems to be having a good time.

The men that have been doing all extra duty before are glad that this year they do not need ditches and sewers to dig and lay.

Forty, the trap drummer, has a great attraction in town which often makes trouble between him and the guards after 10:30.

The Rockers in Company D and the Hospital Corps were initiated by tossing them up in a blanket. The paddle brigade also got in their work.

The band forgot their table. That was the cause of Worth K. Bailey drawing up a set of plans and it also made work for the carpenters.

Dave Long, who is in charge of Major McCormick's horse, is making a big hit by his fancy riding, his jumping on and off and making the high dive.

The Chaplain's first sermon was preached to the boys today. The subject was: "What's the Use of Preaching? How-ety, Self Control and Reverence."

They did away with the teams this year. They are using motor trucks, with a capacity of 3,000 pounds to a load. Two loads hauled all the band outfit. It always took about eight loads before. Now they are going to use them for the ambulance. It is a great improvement over the old way. Only the 10th Hospital Corps boys hate to lose the two mules.

Sergeant Koffer said he likes camp life, but if he was only where he could run into his beauty on Elm-stone Corner he would be all right.

J. W. Buttermore took the lamps off his auto to make light for the band concerts. It worked in great style and he is thinking of taking out a patent.

Sergeant Harry Koffer sprained his ankle by stepping in a hole during inspection.

Teddy Williams of Company D is in the chief clerk and started to make up the pay roll. Fred Thomas is working under Kitchey and learning to cook.

The ladies are not so plentiful at the hospital as in former years. Moser, Cunningham and Kitchey are all

JESSE HOOK WISE.

(Political Advertisement)
The subject of this sketch, Jesse H. Wise, is 50 years old, and was born and raised on a farm on which East Wyonesburg, Greene county, Penna., is now built.

He received his early education at a country school, and Waynesburg College, and the Military Academy at West Point.

He is the son of Catherine Hook Wise, who was a daughter of Capt. "Yankee" Hook, one of the prominent business men of Greene county, and Morgan H. Wise, late a member of Congress of the 21st District, then composed of Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties.

At an early age he taught school at McNees school for the small sum of $7 per month, which was the highest wages that were paid in that particular district at that time. Afterwards he taught at the Bridgeport School the higher grade, and afterwards taught at the Emerson Institute of Washington, D. C., on 14th Street, one of the highest grade private schools in the United States. Graduate boys, Blaine boys, Haines boys, etc., were pupils.

He also held a position in the pension department at Washington, under the administration of the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, then Secretary of War under President Garfield, and at the same time attended night law school at Washington, D. C.

He studied law with Robinson F. Downey, Esq., and his brother Francis W. Downey in 1882 and 1883, and was admitted to practice law in the Supreme Court of the State of Pennsylvania, and the Courts of Greene county, Penna.

He has been extensively engaged in the practice of law since, practicing in all the courts, and is also a member of the bar of Allegheny county.

He married Margaret W. Wise, a daughter of George W. Wisecarver on October 28, 1887, a prominent Greene county man, being one of the most extensive farmers in Greene county.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise have two children living, a son George W. Wise, aged 21 years, who recently graduated from Linsmith's College, Poughkeepsie, New York, in the Banking and Bookkeeping department, and Robert Russell Wise aged 16. They were unfortunately in losing two sons and two daughters.

Mr. Wise has always been a hard working active man, believing that everybody ought to have a fair chance in this life, and that the elements that form a true and high character are honesty, truth and honor.

He is slow and deliberate in coming to a conclusion, but after doing so he is hard to change.

He recently saved a large part of his money.

The orders were for no booze to be in camp. But that does not bother the Connellsville boys. They never did care for that stuff.

Jackenbury and Hardy are always on the run for the shower bath. These boys are from the country and never saw such a thing before.

Private Smith and Homer Cunningham thought camp would last only one day and spent all their money.

Major McKee looks like a general on horseback.

W. A. Coughenour, the boy who drives the hospital mules, got excited yesterday and drove so fast that the mules almost went through their coils.

Bert Ritchie who is cooking is a dandy and all the boys like his cooking.

Sargeant Smith has charge of the "gimlets" digging stinks.

The hospital has the only first signal lamp giving a green color.

Homer Moser started to raise a mustache and goatee. Now he must drink coffee, because his whiskers won't (go too). Hee, hee.

Wm. C. Bishop.

Greene county from bankruptcy during the cattle trouble of 1899, when he induced some New York parties to place mortgages on farms in the county to save the people in the sum of half a million, all of which is of record in Greene county.

Mr. Wise was the attorney for the company, and W. W. Patrick, now deceased was the appraiser.

He has figured in important cases in Pittsburgh, in the Clara Tomer lunacy case, involving about $100,000 which he won after a committee had been in charge of Miss Tomer for 25 years and upwards.

He was also engaged in the litigation in the Den Trimble estate, involving the interest of an heir in what is known as the old Hamilton Hotel, opposite the Hotel Anderson, Penn Avenue, which was won by Wise & Minor.

He was also interested in the protracted litigation of Moore against Moore, involving in the neighborhood of $50,000 which case was won by Wise & Minor.

Mr. Wise in his contest for Congressional honors in the 23rd District of Penna., bases his fight on Pure Politics; that the National Government should improve the main roads between large cities; and that the National Government should establish a department of Mines and Mining along the lines of the life saving service; and that the National Government should establish a Parcel Post, giving the local merchants a minimum postage so that the big mailing houses cannot transgress upon their property. The big mailing houses of course have their own district to themselves.

Mr. Wise is unalterably opposed to extravagance in the conduct of the National Government, and is opposed to and condemns a large standing army, believing that the interest of the American people are not conserved by extravagance in carrying on a large regular army, and that much of this money should be used in building and improving the public highways.

He favors an inheritance tax and urges an amendment to the Constitution, if necessary to its accomplishment. He also favors an income tax upon large estates with a net income of $10,000 per annum, and he also favors a National Department of Public Health, so that the people may learn to live well and long.

He also vigorously argues that the Constitution should be amended so as to elect United States Senators by popular vote, and he is in favor of the publicity of campaign contributions previous to election day.

He favors the employment of a high grade chemist, and a high grade agriculturist by the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States in each Congressional District of the United States, whose duty it shall be to confer and consult with the farmers of his particular district and help them to re-juvenate their farms, so that the productivity could be increased and the price of foodstuffs lowered.

Mr. Wise preaches vigorously that there should be no tariff on food stuffs where there is no labor in it and believes that it is a relic of barbarism and should not be tolerated. While he is in favor of dignifying American labor, the tariff should not be excessive.

He is a Democratic insurgent of the deepest dye.

He believes that good roads and parcels posts would cheapen the cost of transportation, and if the tariff is taken off food stuffs where there is no labor in it, that the cost of transportation will be materially reduced.

He urges on the people in his campaign, that he does not care to know whether they vote for him or not, that he is not in the line of begging votes, but rests his cause upon principle, and if the principles are not for the interest of mankind, and will not inure to the benefit of all mankind, then the other gentleman for the office, Col. Grace should be supported.

ARE YOU SATISFIED TO PAY MORE ELSEWHERE ?

Mace & Co., as is well known, have always sold higher grade goods at lower prices than competing stores have even dared to quote them at. So when you realize with full force that we, the Saville Salvage Sales Co., as disposers of this mammoth stock, have taken the most unusual liberties in tremendously slashing the former low prices; you can begin to see why this sale has produced a very real panic in the ranks of competition, and particularly in the receipts of one house, who seemed to have only a too true fear of what has actually taken place. Every reduction here has been made honestly from the original price tickets, with which you are all familiar. No marking the goods to twice their value and then reducing(?) to the so-called sale prices at this store. Every reduction we offer is bona-fide, legitimate.

1,000 SOLDIERS AT COLUMBUS.

Governor of Ohio Takes Charge of Strike Situation.

PROCLAMATION BY HARMON

Unwilling to Allow Lawless Violence Rule Capital City For Lack of Sufficient Protection—Blame For Situation Lies Somewhere.

Columbus, O., Aug. 15.—The first regiment Ohio national guard of Cincinnati, Troop B and Battery C, both of Columbus, have been ordered out to the scene of the strike, making a total of about 1,000 troops. The order was issued by Governor Harmon on his own initiative and he also gave out the following statement in regard to the matter:

"I have ordered a portion of the national guard to report for duty at Columbus forthwith. I have done this of my own motion under my authority as governor. The police force of the city, which is entirely too small at best, has been reduced and demoralized by the open murder of many of its members. It has shown itself incapable without help, of maintaining order. A continuance of this condition would disgrace the state and inflict grievous injuries on its capital city.

"Wherever the blame rests, for it surely rests somewhere, the menace of the situation is beyond question. And I am unwilling to let lawless violence run unchecked for the lack of sufficient force to put it down while the police of the city is being recruited and reorganized and the sheriff is summoning the men of the county to uphold the public authority.

"It does not mend matters to say the local authorities should have taken steps sooner, though this is true. Let them be taken now without delay. Meanwhile the troops will render whatever assistance is needed.
The state expects every citizen promptly to shoot his colors and lead his aid so that the emergency which the guard is summoned to meet may speedily be brought to an end and Columbus and Franklin county prove themselves worthy of the right of self-government by meeting their responsibilities.

"The public interest now wholly overwhelms the private controversy which is the occasion of the grave danger that, if permitted to continue, would threaten the foundations of the government and the first care of all citizens must be to maintain law and order because otherwise no man can enjoy his individual rights whatever they may be."

CRANK STOPPED AT BEVERLY

Wanted to See President, He Said, on Pension Matter.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 15.—The secret service men who guard President Taft have captured their second crank of the present summer. To the Beverly police he gave the name of James F.
O'Connor. He wanted to see Mr. Taft, he said, about a pension matter. He declared that he was responsible for the recent newspaper stories concerning a reorganization of the Republican party.

O'Connor, according to the authorities, has spent two years in the Massachusetts state farm for the insane.

More Troops to Fight Fire.

Washington, Aug. 15.—At the request of the interior department General Wood ordered three companies of the Twenty-fifth United States Infantry from American Falls, Idaho, to Glacier National Park in western Montana to assist in fighting forest fires.

Shoots Niece For Burglar.

Denison, Tex., Aug. 15.—Mistaking his niece for a burglar when she went into the yard for a drink of water, L.
Jackson, a black, aged thirty-two, shot her. The girl was instantly killed.

Sick Man Takes His Life in Office of Physician He Went to for Treatment.

Making a leap from strips of bed-clothing, John Doyle, of Madison, Westmoreland county, hanged himself to a bed post in the home of Dr. G. H.
Dickson at Edinboro, Pa., shortly before noon, Friday.

The man was found by Dr. Dickson, himself, some minutes later, and the physician hurriedly cut him down.
Measures were immediately used to restore the man but the attempt at suicide had been made too long beforehand and Doyle died. The cause for the man taking his life is really unknown, but it is believed to drink.
Doyle had been under the influence of liquor for the greater part of the day before he hanged himself.

Doyle had come from Madison, his home town, early in the day, to Edinboro, Pa., where he had met a number of friends at the works there. A reliable time followed in which liquor had been rather freely.

Becoming sick, Doyle left his party of friends and went to the office of Dr. Dickson and asked for some medicine. The doctor found him in bad shape from his drinking and in preference to giving him medicine,

HANDS A ROAST.

Councilmen in Wilkes-Barre Are Criticized by Mayor.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 15.—Councilmembers of this city are exercised by charges against them by Mayor Lewis
P. Kiffin in a speech at Lake Lodore.
The mayor is alleged to have said that out of the thirty-two councilmen in this city few are worthy men and is also alleged to have expressed the following opinions of the others:

"The rest of the bunch are unprincipled grafters and crooks. They betray the people who elected them.
Some are guilty of misdemeanors which, if known, would send them on an enforced vacation to state's prison.
They are a set of miscellaneous curios. They are not selected for their fitness but for their unfitness.
They are the crafty crooks who pull the wool over their unworthy eyes. They go into council not to serve the city, but to help themselves.
I believe that there are some councilmen who have paid off mortgages on their homes, sport autos and drink imported wines. Doer now is not good enough for them."

"Properly, good government and municipal advancement are choked by these petty city fathers. The people are asleep at the switch."

Councilmen called on the mayor expressed their indignation and said they would demand an investigation by city council and ascertain whether or not he said what is credited to him.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS

In Nebraska Through State Wide Primary is on Today.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 15.—The worst political tangle in the history of Nebraska is up for unraveling at the statewide primary today.

County option has torn asunder party lines and made predictions valueless. Feeling is strong, however, that Mayor Dahlman will defeat Governor Shallenberger for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Bryan is supporting Shallenberger, who has agreed to sign a county option bill if the legislature passes one, although personally opposed. Dahlman says he will veto any such measure.

Indications are that Congressman
Hitchcock will defeat Richard L. Mc-Callie, editor of Bryan's Commonwealth, for the United States senate. Hitchcock is not Metcalfe's foe.

THREAT TO KILL

The New York City Judges Made By Ex-Convicts.

New York, Aug. 15.—An anonymous letter, carrying information of a plot of four ex-convicts recently discharged from Sing Sing to assassinate Judges O'Sullivan, Malone and Rosalsky of the court of general sessions,
Judge Fawcett of Brooklyn, Assistant District Attorney Hart and former District Attorney Ely has reached the district attorney.

In view of the recent attack upon Mayor Gaynor the threat caused much a lot of comment about the criminal court building.

Of the judges who are threatened in the letter, Judge Fawcett of Brooklyn, and Judges Malone and Rosalinsky are known as men of severity when it comes to the infliction of sentences.

Judge O'Sullivan, on the other hand,
is inclined to be lenient.

Judge Fawcett has received numerous letters threatening his life and has defied his enemies in open open court following the infliction of heavy sentences.

A Pleasant Outlook.
"I wonder why the bride is crying," remarked one of the guests at the wedding. "Can it be because she is leaving home?"

"No, it isn't that," answered the bride's small brother. "She's in love with the fellow she married, and I think she's crying 'cause she feels sorry for him."

COWBOYS AND INDIANS PLAN BIG ENTERTAINMENT FOR COLONEL ROOSEVELT.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 15.—Within a week this typical western city will be thronged with visitors from every clime and nation to attend the monster "Frontier days" celebration which commences Aug. 24, but is preceded by an automobile meet of several days. Besides the celebration itself, the biggest attraction of the gathering will be the presence of former President Theodore Roosevelt, who will deliver his first speech in the west since his return from Africa. Great interest is attached to the coming of the Colonel, who is particularly well liked by the cowboys and plainman.

He was at one time a resident of the west and is familiar with the life of

READY TO RIDE A STEER.

Complaint From
the West Side
on Dirty Street

A citizen of the West Side sends
The Courier the following communication which is self-explanatory:

"A veritable disease breeding spot in Greater Connellsville. First street, West Side. The accumulation of all the filth and garbage for the last ten years is lying on this street out of all the infectious germs infected to the city and no amount of rain will wash it off. This filth is pushed into the gutters from day to day by cars and horse-drawn carts. There has been no effort to clean it away for the past number of years.

"Several weeks ago the gutters on both sides of the street were filled up and this mass of excrement and filth shoveled into the middle of the street. The hot weather dried this mass, and the travel on the street ground it into a fine powder that now lies there from four to eight inches thick, and when disturbed by a passing wagon or other vehicle, or by a gust of wind, rises in dense clouds is seated in the rear end of the

The Ring and the Man

WITH SOME INCIDENTAL RELATION TO THE WOMAN

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEANOW NEVILLA

Gormly had not waited in the library to hear the result of the telephone. As soon as he had the men comfortably provided for, he had gone back to the great hall, which was more of a living room than anything else. The first of the women of the party to present herself was Miss Haldane. She was in full evening dress. Her noble head rose grandly from her aquiline shoulders. In her dark hair she wore a diamond coronet. Her dress, soft, shimmering stuff of white, trailed behind her.

He had never seen her except in the quiet conventional of a street dress. He had imagined her in all sorts of guises. When she burst upon him that way, however, he might dazzled him. It was so far beyond anything he had ever imagined that he could scarcely comprehend it. He stopped and stared at her. For once his own control deserted him. There was that frank, open admiration in his glance of which no one could mistake the meaning.

"You must pardon my surprise," said Gormly. "I have never seen you in an evening gown, and I confess my imagination unequal to—"

"Do you like it?" said the girl nervously. "I am scarcely conscious of it, Miss Haldane," he returned directly. "I see only you."

"How singularly unobservant," she said lightly, recovering her equanimity. "For a man whose business it is to buy and sell such things not to notice them."

"In your presence tonight, Miss Haldane, business is as far from me as it is on the other side of the world," he continued swiftly. "For this is a different world from any in which I have ever moved, and I—"

His speech was broken by the entrance of Mrs. Haldane and Miss Steward. The latter was a fragile, graceful, charming girl, who would have attracted instant attention and notice anywhere, except beside her royal companion and friend, Mrs. Haldane.

At this moment Haldane, followed by the two other men, came in from the library.

"Mr. Gormly," began Haldane, senior. "I am unable to get anybody over the telephone."

"I am sorry to hear that. I suppose that the wires are down on account of the storm."

"Exactly. Meanwhile, I scarcely know what to do. Could you send a man on a horse over to my place?"

"I should be glad to do so, did I possess the horse."

"The pair that brought us up from the lodge?"

"Neither is broken to saddle, I believe, and—but I can send a man over on foot. I have no doubt."

"I hardly think that would be possible," interposed Dr. Devenux. "I should not like to be responsible for any man on foot in such a storm as this."

"I'll go myself," said Gormly quickly. "You, Mr. Gormly," exclaimed Mrs. Haldane. "Why, we couldn't think of such a thing. The danger!"

"Madam, I have been out in worse storms than this. He answered, "when I was a mere boy in the far west."

"It was the first time I had been out from New York and had as to any period of Gormly's life outside of New York, and one of the company at least picked up his ears at this remark and listened attentively.

"We couldn't think of allowing you to do so," said Mrs. Haldane. "I suppose that pair you have could hardly take us over?" questioned Dr. Devenux.

"I am afraid not," answered Gormly. "They have been driven rather hard today, and they are a light pair at best, as you notice."

"Well, we are thrust upon you, then, as it were."

"I hope you won't find my house the typical desert island," answered Gormly, smiling. "Indeed, I scarcely know what the resources of the establishment are, having entered into possession only today, but whatever they are, they are at your service."

"There's no help for it, I suppose," answered Haldane somewhat gloomily. "I guess you will have to keep us until morning."

"Think how happy you make a lonely old bachelor," returned Gormly, by doing his Christmas guests. And if you will accept this situation, as I feel I fear you must, I shall make arrangements so that you can be taken to your own place on Christmas morning. Let me consult my butler, who was Mr. Goodrich's major dome before I bought the place, and see what can be done."

A brief conversation with that functionary threw some little cheer over the situation. Gormly's own wardrobe, which had been sent down, could amply supply the men with whatever they needed, and the butler hinted the cheering news that the kitchen was a married man with two grown daughters, and he had no doubt that such things as the women required might be secured from them.

"Send at once," said Gormly quickly. "And ask Mrs. Bullen to come up to the house and be of what service she can to the ladies. How are we off for bedroom?"

more matter of course. "Oh, beautifully. You see, there is nothing to consult you about now. It is all in the architect's and builder's hands. You have been so helpful to me I really don't know what I should have done without you."

"And you have, of course, respected my confidence? No one knows anything about my connection with the enterprise?"

"No one at all."

"Not even your father?"

"Certainly not. I never discuss business with my father, nor does he discuss business with me."

"And yet," said Gormly quickly, "I should think he might discuss business with you to advantage."

"What do you mean?" asked the girl.

"I am a business man, Miss Haldane, accustomed to deal with men and women in a business way, and much depends upon my ability to estimate the capacity of those with whom I work. I have not often seen a woman, even a man, with a better head for business than you have."

It was the dearest thing the man could have said to her. Women, he knew, were not naturally business-like, and to have such qualities attributed to her was the subtlest kind of flattery. It came, too, from a man who was a power in the business world, and was therefore the more valuable.

"It is very good of you to say that," said the girl, smiling pleasantly in appreciation. "And I am more proud of it because everybody says you are such a fine business man yourself."

"I should like to do something really worth while," said the girl after a little pause. "I like people who do something worth while."

"So do I," said the man, with obvious meaning.

"Mr. Gormly," she exclaimed impulsively, "why don't you do something worth while?"

Gormly smiled. "My dear young lady," he answered gently, "he was not enough to be her father, he thought half and, as he noted his own of speech—"I have the largest store in the world. I have agents in every civilized country and many that are uncivilized. I own and control a fleet of steamers. I have my private wooden mill, and silk mill and woolen mill. I suppose there are ten thousand people in my employ. I can give you a check for another million for your settlement work as often as you wish it, and—"

"These are all very well, Mr. Gormly," said the girl gravely. "They spell tremendous material success; they show ability and command to the eyes of the world; they count for a great deal; indeed, I find lately that they are counting more and more; but they don't really amount to anything after all. What is money, what are power and influence? My father, for instance, was born with more than he could possibly spend, more than he knew what to do with, inherited from thirty ancestors who had the wit to buy land when it could be bought for a song. He has influence, power. What does it amount to? I want him to do something, really to do something in the world, to do something of mankind. I am preaching to you just as I preach to him."

"Do you look upon me as you would a father?" asked Gormly quickly.

"Why, no, not exactly. Certainly not," answered the girl.

"I am forty-four, you know."

"No, I didn't know; but what if you are? You are still a young man. My father is fifty-five, and I don't call him old."

"Wonderful consideration from twenty-two!" said Gormly smiling.

"Well," resumed the girl, "I was saying that you ought to do something in life. You have made yourself. You started with nothing, and I may believe the newspaper accounts of you."

"Have you been reading them?"

"Every word," answered the girl. "I was quite proud of being able to say to my friends that I knew you and what they said about you was true."

"By the way, Eleanor, may I ask where you met Mr. Gormly?" queried her father.

"He is very much interested in our social settlement work. Many of his employees live in the vicinity of the new settlement house we are building, and I have had occasion to consult him at his office a great many times."

"Ah," said the older man reflectively, wondering how much might be behind that entirely innocent statement.

Meanwhile a footman arranged a card table, at which the quartet took their places and instantly became absorbed in the game. Mrs. Haldane manifested no special interest in the play, and at Gormly's suggestion she left the hall and went with him into the inviting little library through the broad open doors that gave access to it from the hall. Another fire was burning there. He drew a low chair before it in which she sat down. He himself stood with his arm resting on the mantel, looking down on her.

The two were in plain sight from the bridge table; but as they talked in low tones their conversation was inaudible in the hall. Haldane glanced curiously and uneasily at them from time to time, but finally, becoming absorbed in his game, paid them no further notice.

CHAPTER IV.

Miss Haldane is Charmed and Charming.

"Mr. Gormly," began Miss Haldane. "I have not seen you for some time."

"Not for two months and eleven days, Miss Haldane," answered Gormly quietly.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the astonished girl. "How can you have the time! Do you keep a calendar of my visits to your office?"

"I have a marvelous memory for details which I wish to remember," said the man.

"And I am so much interested in the settlement house that—I how do I progress, by the way?" he continued, gravely as if his recollection of anything connected with her was a

DOG UNEARTHS BODY OF WOMAN.

Horrible Tragedy Revealed at Lancaster, California.

GERMAN LADY MURDER VICTIM

Mrs. Castine, Formerly Prominent in German Court Circles, Horribly Murdered by Blows From Ax—Woman Not Dead When Buried.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—Horribly murdered by blows from an ax, the body of Mrs. Frieda Schulz Castine, formerly a prominent figure at the Imperial court of Germany, was unearthed by a dog from a shallow grave almost at the doorstep of her ranch home, four miles from Lancaster, in the northern part of Los Angeles county.

The woman was not dead when thrown into the grave.

Her son, Lieutenant Emil Schulz, a protégé of the crown prince of Germany and formerly in the German army, is in a precarious condition at a hospital from the shock of the discovery and from blood poisoning contracted through kissing his mother's body.

The police have arrested Otto Schulz, a distant relative of Mrs. Schulz Castine, and they say he confessed the murder.

Mrs. Schulz Castine is the descendant of a prominent German family, her husband being a Von Schulz. Her second husband was E. M. Castine, a Frenchman known throughout European musical circles and for many years connected with a theater in Baltimore.

On Friday Mrs. Schulz Castine visited Lancaster to attend to some errands and inquire for mail at the post office. She was expecting $20,000 from mail from the settlement in Berlin of an estate. Otto Schulz knew of this and had planned to kill her.

Like most of these bloody affairs between families, the cause was very trivial. Rivalry, it seems, was playing on an accident owned by Nuncio, who took the instrument from him and attacked him, inflicting a fatal wound with a knife.

Officers of the law and officials of the city of Philadelphia, by whom both men were employed, are making efforts to locate Nuncio, and have him answer the charges of his crime, but no traces have been found at this time. Both men had been drinking beer and were slightly intoxicated about the time the fight took place.

Southwest No. 3 Falls Before the Car Shop Boys

Special to The Courier.

EVERSON, Aug. 16.—Manager Boyd brought his undefeated Southwest No. 3, Northern Frick League team here last evening and was defeated by John Gordon's Car Shop bunch of life-line winners by the score of 7 to 0. Ramsey, hero of excellent ball for Southwest, and was well supported. His delivery was not batted hard either, but Dumps Fortune failed to beam, while on the other hand Horne was the Arabian Nights entertainer for the Devon aggregation. Southwest found it impossible to touch their few hits and when a scratch team in run for Southwest they could not connect with the mysterious Mr. Horne's shoats.

Everson started the ball rolling by scoring two in the sixth when a runner bumped the sphere from Gordon's hands and two men crossed the plate. Two of Devon's hobby, the sacker, were responsible for two more. In the eighth two pretty hits to center and two to left brought three more men across the pan.

Both teams played gilt edged ball in the field and the game was more interesting than the score indicates. Ramsey struck out four men and seven left before Horne.

Frick creek, taken from the Monongahela river, will cross here with Southwest on the Devon grounds on the 24th.

Cruikshank Jumps From the Brooklyn Bridge and Lives.

THREE SOMERSAULTS IN AIR

Promptly Arrested on Charge of Attempted Suicide—Doctors Say the Man's Spine is Dislocated and He Has Suffered Internal Injuries.

New York, Aug. 16.—William Cruikshank, aged twenty-six, had a discussion at the outing of the Harlem Social club at Classon Point as to the ability of bridge jumpers. Somebody bet him $500 that he could not jump from Brooklyn bridge and survive the drop.

He accepted the bet, made the jump without a hitch, and after the policeman and doctors had filled him with liquor he was taken to the Brooklyn hospital, where he is held under the charge of an attempted suicide.

Melville Snow was with Cruikshank when the discussion concerning high jumps was broached and he followed the jumper until he made his long dive. The police held Snow as a material witness to the suicide charge.

When the two men came from Harlem to the bridge they went over to a point thirty feet west of the Brooklyn tower. There Cruikshank took off his coat and shoes and made the jump. Vincent Ryan saw the jump. He said that the man turned two or three somersaults in the air and then hit the water about 100 feet off shore.

The diver went down once, came back, and gracefully waved aside a couple of tugs that offered to assist him. When the winner of the $500 bet got near the shore a man on the schooner Normandy threw him a line and towed him to the bank.

The doctors who came from the hospital filled Cruikshank with liquor, and after an examination said that the man had dislocated his spine and had, perhaps, suffered internal injuries. They may later operate on him.
